Description

A 19th century Chinese Canton famille rose porcelain onion-form bottle vase and lid depicting scholars and flora, circa 1850.

Chinese Canton porcelain, originating from Guangzhou, is renowned for its vibrant, hand-painted designs featuring intricate patterns and floral motifs. Popular in the 18th and 19th centuries, it combines blue and white elements with rich colours like red and green. Highly collectible, it exemplifies traditional Chinese craftsmanship and decorative artistry.
