Description

Handmade bolster cushion made from a fragment 17th century Flemish tapestry backed in midnight blue velvet. Tapestry circa 1680.

17th-century Flemish tapestries are renowned for their rich, detailed scenes and vibrant colors. Woven in Flanders, these tapestries often depicted historical events, mythological stories, or elaborate floral designs. Highly prized for their artistry and craftsmanship, they adorned noble homes and palaces, reflecting the opulence and cultural sophistication of the period.
