Description

A stunning mid century Maurice Burke for Arkana Model 30 rosewood and aluminium tulip table, circa 1965.

Maurice Burke was a British industrial designer known for his contributions to modern furniture design. In the 1960s, he founded Arkana, a design studio that became renowned for producing high-quality, innovative furniture. Arkana was celebrated for its clean lines, functional designs, and use of modern materials.

Burke's work at Arkana emphasised craftsmanship and simplicity, creating pieces that were both aesthetically pleasing and practical. His designs have left a lasting impact on mid-century modern furniture design.
