Description

A striking 18ct white gold bombé ring, designed with a beautifully balanced arrangement of princess-cut and baguette-cut diamonds. The gently domed, sculptural form gives the ring a confident presence on the hand, while the crisp geometry of the diamond setting creates a sophisticated, architectural finish.

A central row of princess-cut diamonds forms the focal point of the design, their clean square outlines and brilliant sparkle lending the piece a modern elegance. This is framed on either side by tapered baguette-cut diamonds, whose linear facets provide a subtle contrast in shape and light. Together, the stones produce a refined play of brilliance: the princess cuts offer lively fire, while the baguettes contribute clarity, structure, and a sleek, tailored appearance.

The cool white-gold setting enhances the brightness of the diamonds and complements the ring's polished, contemporary profile. Substantial yet elegant, the bombé form makes this a particularly versatile jewel- equally suited to everyday wear, an important occasion, or as a distinctive alternative engagement or dress ring.

A timeless and beautifully composed diamond ring, combining classic cuts with a bold, sculptural silhouette.
