Description

An 18th century Italian gilt gesso framed looking glass with original foxed mirror mercury glass plate, circa 1780.

Mercury glass mirrors emerged in the early 19th century as a cheaper alternative to traditional silver mirrors. Developed in Germany and Bohemia, they featured double-walled glass coated with a mercury-tin amalgam. these mirrors became prized for their distinctive, antique patina, reflecting the period's decorative tastes. And it is this foxing and patina that is so sought after today.
