Description

A large Paul Ysart millefiori glass paperweight.

Paul Ysart (1904-1998) was a renowned Scottish glassmaker, celebrated for his exceptional craftsmanship and innovative designs. Trained in the art of glassblowing, he worked with renowned studios such as Monart Glass in Scotland before establishing his own workshop in the mid-20th century.

Ysart is best known for his colourful, patterned glass, often incorporating techniques like casework and casing. His pieces, ranging from vases to paperweights, reflect a unique blend of traditional methods and contemporary aesthetics, earning him a prominent place in the world of art glass.
